DK	VR200302353	 The sound is made by a small bell with a stroke frequency of approximately 1 KHz, this acoustic pattern is repeated in different rhythms in six eights and eight eights, respectively; the mark is notated in six eights and consists of three eights followed by a three eights rest; the ringing of the sound is shown by the spectrogram in which the horizontal axis indicates the time in seconds, whereas the vertical axis indicates the frequency spectrum as a function of time; the frequency is quoted in hertz (Hz) and is indicated in an interval from 0 to 20 KHz; when reading the spectrogram a clear stroke frequency of approximately 1 KHz and a first overtone complex of approx, 2 KHz are shown; the bell has two modes of vibration, which form a dissonance at the first overtone complex (broad band at about 2 and 2.25 KHz with two distinct lines); higher overtone complexes are made with frequency variations of the strike note in the form of fractions of the strike note, and together they form the acoustic image of a clear ringing of a bell, which is audible across long distances in the open; as it is the situation for all music types there is a possibility that the performer of the rhythm could phrase the rhythm, thus the music type is not to be strictly interpreted.	29 30 35	Hjem-Is Europa A/S	R	2003

US	76/586726	The mark consists of a sound mark comprising a music motive in the key of c minor in 3/4 time, playing the notes in the transcription shown in the drawing filed herewith. The motive consists of two musical lines played on a keyboard instrument, one part in treble clef and the other in bass clef, and the treble line begins the motive. The first beat is comprised of 4 sixteenth notes consisting of the pitches middle C-E flat-F-G flat, played in a legato fashion in a crescendo from a mezzo-piano towards a mezzo-forte over the course of the four pitches. The bass line has a quarter note rest for the full duration of the first beat. Beat two begins at a mezzo forte dynamic with the treble line descending to the pitch F for the value of a dotted quarter note as the bass voice simultaneously enters on beat two on the pitch low G (bottom line bass clef) for the value of a quarter note, which is then held while the treble line finishes beat two by continuing the descending line to the pitch E flat for the value of an eighth note, decreasing in volume. In beat three, both lines come together in a contrary motion movement for the value of a quarter note, the treble line completing its descending line to the pitch middle C and the bass line ascending up an interval of a perfect fourth to the low C (C below middle C). This completes the motive.	9 38	Cisco technology Inc.	E	2005

US	76/594560	The mark consists of a sound mark comprising a music motive in the key of c major in 2/4 time. The motive consists of 5 pitches played on a keyboard instrument, in treble clef. The first beat is comprised of 4 sixteenth notes consisting of the pitches E (the note a major third above middle C), ascending up an interval of one half step to F, descending back down one half step to the original starting pitch E and skipping down a major third to middle C, played in a legato fashion in a crescendo from a mezzo-piano towards a mezzo-forte over the course of the four pitches. Beat two concludes the motive with the pitch G (the pitch a perfect fourth below Middle C) being struck with an accent at a dynamic level of forte. Although the note is struck and held at the value of an eighth note, the reverberation from the keyboard extends the pitch to a value of a full quarter note. This concludes the motive.	38	CallWave	E	2005
